MILLION DOLLAR FUND TOTALS $890,000 TODAY

Drive Will Continue Until July 1 Moody Announces at Commencement Luncheon

The total raised toward the Million Dollar Fund to date is $890,000, President Moody announced at the Commencement Luncheon today. This figure was ascertained from telegrams received from National Headquarters in New York this morning.

The drive will continue until July 1, however. There is no doubt in the minds of the leaders that the million will be raised by that time, since there are many alumni who have not yet been heard from. But 40 per cent of the alumni have subscribed, said President Moody.

"We want every one to unite as a committee to help put this thing across," said the President. Allen H. Nelson, national chairman of the drive, gave a short address.

"The alumni must know more about what is going on at Middlebury," he said. "The drive has proved that many are totally unacquainted with the College, and are quite heedless to the call of their Alma Mater. Our hearty thanks are due those not alumni who have responded so well."

The names of those who have contributed to the fund will be printed by classes in a single sheet supplement soon to be issued. The latest reports of the drive will also be included in the supplement.

GLADYS THOMPSON TO BE MISSIONARY

Receives Commission At Beautiful Vespers Service

A unique feature of the graduating festivities was the Commencement Vesper Service held Sunday evening in Mead Chapel, at which Miss Gladys Rosebell Thompson, of the graduating class, was commissioned a missionary to Mexico by the American Board for Foreign Missions.

The service began at five o'clock with an organ recital prelude by Prof. Lewis J. Hathaway. Following this, a chorus of men's and women's voices directed by Miss Minnie E. Haydan, of the Music School, rendered a cantata entitled Hymn of Praise, by Felix Mendelssohn. The chorus was assisted by Miss Lillian Ingham and Mrs. Katharine Bonney, sopranos, and Mr. J. Allan Hunter, tenor. Miss Madeleine Gaylor accompanied at the piano while Miss Dorothy Slayton gave the organ accompaniment.

Miss Thompson then received her commission with fit solmenity from the hands of the Rev. James L. Barton, D. D., Secretary of the American Board. She will depart for her field in the near future and will be supported by the Vermont Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions.

Miss Thompson's home is in South Ryegate, Vt. She is a graduate of Montpelier Seminary, Montpelier, Vt. While in college she has been an active member of the Student Volunteer Band, and a leader in the work of the Y. W. C. A. and of the Sunday Noon Club. In her sophomore year she was

Interfraternity Council Makes Rushing Rules For 1923-24

At a meeting of the Interfraternity Council held on June 5, the following rushing rules were adopted for the season of 1923-24.

1. Pledge Day shall be one week (seven days) after mid-semester marks have been given out.
2. No freshman shall be allowed in a fraternity house until open rushing, with the exception of his first night in college.
3. There shall be no rushing until one week (seven days) before Pledge Day. Rushing as defined by the Interfraternity Council is any attempt to persuade or enlighten a freshman on fraternity matters.
4. A man shall not be initiated into any fraternity until he has twelve hours' work to his credit as shown by the records of the Registrar.
5. Any fraternity convicted by the Interfraternity Council of violating the rushing rules three times shall be prohibited from pledging any men for that year.
6. Women shall not be present at any rushing party.
7. Alumni are to be governed by the same rules as active members.
8. No fraternity shall pledge more than fifteen men a year.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT GIVES FINE PROGRAM

Best Musicians of Middlebury Combine in Concert

Unusually high artistic merit featured the Commencement Concert presented in the Mead Memorial Chapel Saturday evening by the combined glee clubs and voice and instrumental students. The concert this year was unique in that it was arranged not only on a larger scale than hitherto but a new style of program was adopted. The highest representatives were chosen from each department of the music school, including piano, organ, vocal and instrumental.

The opening number, a Grieg Sonata, violin and piano selection, by Madeleine I. Gaylor and Michael Prata attracted attention at the start. Two such fine artists are deserving of the highest praise for their marvellous technique and delicate interpretations. J. Allan Hunter '24, in "Pleadings" and "Ecstacy" very successfully introduced a different type of song that more nearly approaches the rectial and gives evidence of a marked improvement. A Listz number, Consolation, by Dorothy Slayton, was exquisitely rendered in her usual clean cut manner. Alban J. Lobdell, in an organ selection, Festal Prelude, made his first public appearance very creditably. We have no doubt but that he will now take up his position amidst the rank and file of our musicians.

Mrs. Katherine Bonney, who is so well known in musical circles as to need no introduction presented three songs with her usual charm and clarity. Elegy by the String Quartette consisting of Messrs. Prata, Spaulding, Lee and Botsford, was particularly well received and gave evidence of an ability above the average. Miss Gaylor delighted the audience with two piano selections, Capriccio by Mendelssohn and completeely captured it with Scott's Lotus Land. Miss Gaylor has progressed steadily and her piano

LARGEST CLASS YET TO GRADUATE RECEIVES DIPLOMAS THIS MORNING

38 Men and 66 Women Graduated in Impressive Exercises at Congregational Church

TEN RECEIVE DEGREE MAGNA CUM LAUDE

Dr. Henry H. Tweedy of Yale Gives Address—Five Honorary Degrees Conferred

The largest class in the history of the College, numbering 104, graduated with degrees of A. B. and B. S. at the 123rd Commencement in the Congregational Church this morning. Six women and four men were awarded diplomas magna cum laude, while five men and twenty-two women received their degrees cum laude. Master's degrees were awarded to twelve. Five honorary degrees were conferred upon distinguished visitors who were here for the occasion. Prof. Henry Hallam Tweedy, of Yale School of Divinity, was the Commencement speakerr.

Following the chapel service at 9:00 o'clock in Mead Memorial Chapel, the Seniors, alumni, faculty, commencement guests, and Trustees formed a procession on the campus and marched to the Congregational Church. The service at the church was opened by organ music, after which the Rev. James Levi Barton, of the class of '81, offered prayer. Dr. Barton who is secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions is a member of the Board of Trustees. He is also honorary national chairman of the Million-Dollar drive.

N

Professor Tweedy began his address to the graduating class by referring to Janus one of the oldest and most interesting gods of the Roman pantheon, whose temple of war—scarcely more than a huge gateway with great double doors facing east and west—was closed in eras of peace and opened in times of war. It seems that Janus was the god of beginnings, and he is a significant figure for college graduates facing the "commencement" of a new stage in their careers. The speaker invited his hearers to look out through the two doorways, one looking into the years of the past and the other into the years of the future, and to strive to interpret the vision which educated men and women of the present ought to see.

Turning to the gateway of the past, Dr. Tweedy discussed some of the permanent possessions which four years at Middlebury should have brought to the graduates. The first was wisdom, which is not a mere mass of memorized facts but mental muscle which will enable one to meet entirely new problems and to settle them in new ways. The second was a certain amount of training in the art of living together, which the speaker described as the finest of the arts. In picturing the world's failure to practice it, he spoke of the sorry divorce statistics, class antagonisms, race hatred, industrial and political battles, and called upon the graduates to do all within their power to make the world a cooperative home. The third gift was that of high ideals. We have talked glibly of these, but have failed to practice them. The result is the awful penalty which the entire world is called upon to pay.

HENRY HALLAM TWEEDY
Yale Divinity School Professor, Who Delivered The Commencement Address This Morning

PRESIDENT MOODY DELIVERS INSPIRING BACCALAUREATE SERMON TO GRADUATES

No Duty Humdrum, No Drudgery Meaningless, He Says, If Glorified by A Vision of The King In His Beauty

President Paul D. Moody delivered the Baccalaureate Sermon to the graduating class in Mead Memorial Chapel yesterday morning. Special music was rendered by the College Choir under the direction of Prof. Hathaway.

The President took for his text, Isaiah XXXIII-17, "Thine eyes shall see the king in his beauty, they shall behold the land that is very far off." After dwelling for a moment upon the historical circumstances under which these words were uttered by the prophet, President Moody said:

A pleasing variation of the program was the baritone solo by Mr. William F. Pollard '13, who sang The Publican by Van de Water.

"It is well worth while to pause to see with what significance we freight these words and what they mean to us. If we do this in the light of further revelation, a light beyond Isaiah's we feel a new meaning; and since, in the first place, they were, after all, words of God, they remain words of God to us with a significance which they did not bear when they were uttered.

There is a foolish and regrettable tendency to postpone so many of the promised blessings of God. Eternal life itself, is something which we invariably associate with the region of which we can know so little because it lies the other side of the grave. Yet nearly all that Christ has to say about eternal life represents it as a present possession. We have pushed off the idea until it is vague and colorless to many, and we wonder why they are not interested in it. They are interested in the NOW, not in the hereafter. A great deal of that which we push off to the hereafter of the promises of God and the plans of God are, in reality, for the day in which we live. We do a serious damage to His cause when we think of Him as abandoning as a hopeless mess this world which he has made, and concentrating all His thought and care upon a world beyond. Not so did Jesus instruct men; God has a kingdom here. No, we have not to wait—we need not—to see the King in his beauty.

We do not think of the Jews as a people in any way aesthetically inclined. Judea has given us, it is true, no statues, no paintings, no Acropolis; but it has given to the world another idea of beauty which is far finer, the beauty of holiness. The greatest work of art which has come down to us from Greece comes with broken arms and is carefully buried when the guns threaten Paris, and only brought out again to stand in its niche at the end of a long gallery of the Louvre when the foe has been driven back. The Hebrew has given us the twenty-third psalm, and the book of Isaiah, and the sublime poetry of Job. There are no broken arms to the words which come down to

GIVE HIM A REAL WELCOME

The warmth of the welcome a freshman receives when he first comes to Middlebury has a great deal to do with his success in adjusting himself during the first trying semester. A novel plan is to be tried at the University of Maine next September. A special effort will be made to acclimate the newcomers to their surroundings by getting them together a week before the opening of college. Thus they will be allowed to breathe the collegiate atmosphere in peace a short while before being subjected to sophomore authority and to the bewilderment of the classroom.

We doubt the necessity of using a whole week for this purpose, but believe that much can be done in the three days preceding the formal opening of college. Some organization should accept the duty of helping the freshmen to get acquainted among themselves and with upperclassmen in a systematic way. Individually, also, upperclassmen can do a great deal by mixing with the new men and taking a personal interest in them. Nothing heartens and encourages a man like genuine personal interest by one whom he looks up to. Such personal interest by upperclassmen in certain cases may be the means of insuring a man's success during the first semester, when success scholastically and socially means so very much.

BACK THE SAXONIAN

Synonymous with this issue of the Campus appears the last number of the Saxonian. It is to the interests of the student body and alumni to support the magazine for it has become a project well worth while. During the past year the Saxonian has made rapid strides and increased both its size and its circulation. It has introduced a book corner, and it has steadily improved the quality of its contributions. And never has it swerved an iota from its principles of a high literary standard. With this issue the Saxonian is pleased to announce that it is now able to stand financially on its own feet without the aid of the trustees.

With such an encouraging report in view, is it not to the pleasure of the student body to stand behind this publication? A college of modest reputation such as Middlebury is acquiring should be aptly represented. A comic magazine alone can not be said to fill this place. The college has need of both literary and comic magazines, but such organizations can not be run without the firm backing and personal interest of the students themselves.

INTERFRATERNITY BASEBALL

The spirit of this season's interfraternity baseball series has been that of keen competition and true sportsmanship. At none of these contests were the stands and bleachers crowded with cheering onlookers since none of them were meant to be spectacles but merely contests for the sake of recreation and diversion.

One of the finest things about the interfraternity games is that everyone has a good chance to participate. More general participation in sports is desirable. It is also highly desirable that it be more generally recognized that the primary value of any sport is for the man who takes part in it. Athletic contests between colleges have developed from sports into spectacles. They are closely comparable to the drama. The players are the actors, the diamond or gridiron the stage, and the spectators the audience. As spectacles, the place and the value of such contests should not be discounted. As recreation and diversion, little can be said for them. The percentage of men who take little or no part in recreational athletics is still large. For their benefit, intra-mural sports should be stimulated and encouraged.

YE SAUCY BABOON

The Blue Baboon actually came out on Saturday, June 9, and we daresay he made the circuit of both sides of the hill in record time. His keepers had promised to let him out two months ago but for some reason his appearance was delayed. Perhaps it was thought best to tame him down a bit before letting him loose on the defenseless public. He was quite bold and shameless, however, when he did break out, so we opine that the taming was not overdone.

College comics seem to enjoy a sort of freedom of expression which in any other type of publication is instantly condemned. Perhaps it is a good thing. It shows, at least, what sort of humor is really most popular in college circles. It would be difficult to say just how much real value can be attached to any of the collegiate comics; yet they seem to satisfy a want, and to furnish a unique mode of expression. The first number of the Blue Baboon, we should say, ranks very favorably with the average college humorous publication.

One theme seems to have been running in the minds of most of the contributors to the new publication, and they certainly have expanded it without stint. Sameness is tiresome, and a comic can be anything but tiresome. "Too much is plenty," especially when the most of it is neither pleasing nor witty. There are occasional flashes of real humor, however, and "On Coeds" actually borders on originality.

The Baboon baby, on the whole, is a promising youngster, and has all kinds of opportunities ahead of him. He at least shows no signs of being afraid of the frowning conventional world. For this we heartily congratulate him, and extend to his caretakers our very best wishes for his future career.

SHIPS THAT PASS IN THE NIGHT

The cynic claims that we are fortunate if we retain three friends after our college days are over. That is the trouble with cynics. They see only the bare bald facts and neglect the softening influences of lights and shadows. Nevertheless it is fundamentally true. It is a rare thing indeed to hold even the dearest friends beyond the intimate associations of college. And the fact comes home to us with renewed force at this time of the year when we realize that now we must leave the comrades who have grown into our lives during four of the most precious years we shall ever know. We feel most of us that we shall never see them again. It is a thought at once inconceivable, staggering. We have become so accustomed to the routine, the daily round of familiar tasks and familiar faces that a complete upheval of this life seems fanciful and unreal. We cannot face the reality of parting with these friends of ours; and in the strength of our youth and our idealism we say, "We shall never forget."

But in our hearts we know that we shall. Time erases all things and even memories fade. As the cynic says, we are fortunate if we retain even three friends beyond these hills. That is one view. He overlooks the fact of what those friendships have meant to us—the honesty, the sincerity, the old fashioned goodness. That is not something one forgets. It is something one lives. "Because you have been a good friend to me I shall be a better friend to someone else," we may say.

And there we have it. Life is always a continuance, a going on. Yet tho' time is inexorable one thing that we have once possessed we may never wholly lose. It enters into us and becomes an integral part of ourselves.

So it is not with sadness, not with regret that we bid goodby to the staunch friends of our playtime. Perhaps they were but "Ships that Pass in the Night." Yet in passing was exchanged a hail-all-well and cheer, and the voyages were continued, each toward their separate pole, with new courage, new hope and new inspiration.

COMMUNICATION

Writer Points Out Injustice of Closing La Maison Francaise To Men—Terms It Move Toward Segregation

To the Editor of the Campus:

According to a recent ruling, no men will be accommodated at La Maison Francaise during the year 1923-24. Yet the French School features prominently in all College literature and is attracting many men to Middlebury each year. The statement has been made that it is "Middlebury's French School that is putting the College on the map." And life at the Maison is considered so essential to real knowledge of the language that it is a ruling of that department that recommendations will be given to no student who has not resided at the Maison at least one year.

We hear talk of segregation on all sides but until now Middlebury's attitude has been that men and women should share equally the benefits of the institution. This may not be intended for segregation but it is a move in that direction. Doubtless men and women both would benefit to a certain extent from this arrangement if it were possible to carry it out in a manner fair to all concerned, but from the very nature of the Maison and the language studied it is certain to result in confining the benefits of the French School to the women's side of the Hill.

Mathematically speaking, the Middlebury Million might be termed an equation. Satisfactory solution requires elimination of the "minus signs."

ALUMNI COLUMN

News has been received of the recent marriage of Mr. Carlton H. Warner, ex-'17, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Miss Alice M. Easton '14, was married on Saturday, June 3, to Mr. John Kellog of Albany. The wedding took place at Albany, N. Y. Mrs. Kellog's present address is 35 Hurlburt St., Albany, N. Y.

A recent issue of the Rockford Ill., Daily Register-Gazette announces the reelection of Burton W. Norton '90 to the Police Magistracy of that city, a position which Mr. Norton has held since 1915. In a highly commendatory editorial, the Rockford Republic says: "In a large measure, Mr. Norton possesses the fine qualities of understanding which all too seldom distinguish those placed in power over less fortunate citizens inclined to error. His reelection is dictated by merited ability and public interests."

New Instructor in English Highly Recommended

Miss Marian H. Studley, who is to assist in the department of English for the coming year, comes to Middlebury with unusually high recommendations. Miss Studley was graduated from Wellesley College in 1907 and taught in the public high schools of Middletown, Conn., and Hartford, Conn., for several years. For the past five years she has been a psychology expert in the public high school at Springfield, Mass., analyzing the needs of children. Miss Studley receives the degree of Ph. D. from Michigan University this Commencement.

A course in 19th century poetry will be offered by Miss Studley in addition to two sections of freshmen English and a section of English 15, "Fundamentals of Composition."

Hastings Reelected Captain of Baseball

Paul O. Hastings '24, was reelected to the captaincy of baseball at a recent meeting of this season's lettermen.

Hastings is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, and of the Sages. His popularity in the captain's position this season led to his almost unanimous reelection. His home is in Ludlow, Vt.

Harvard—"No discrimination on the grounds of race or religion" is the decision of the special committee on admissions at Harvard. The decision has been heralded in "The Nation" as the action saving Harvard's noble tradition. The Harvard "Crimson" reviews the committee's report, saying it was the expected decision. The committee prohibits the exclusion of negroes, and mends only one limitation—that on their residence in freshman dormitories is again allowed. It further recomscholastic grounds. This aristocracy of intellect can hardly be criticized.

Columbia University—Fourteen year old Edward Roche Hardy, Jr., recently became a member of Phi Beta Kappa at Columbia University. Entering the University at the age of twelve, he attained senior standing at the end of two and a half years. He is the youngest member in the world of any Greek letter society based on scholarship.

Columbia University—The insignia committee of Columbia University Athletic Association has honored seventy athletes for their performance in basketball, wrestling, cross-country running, swimming, lawn tennis and rifle competition. Forty-two of the awards were for varsity sports while the remaining twenty-eight were given to members of the freshman class, who were awarded their class numerals.

University of Nebraska—The University is making plans for a Memorial Stadium costing $430,000. The stadium will contain two football fields, a baseball diamond, a half mile track, and pageant grounds. There will be 30 hand-ball courts and 12 indoor tennis courts beneath the grandstand.

DELTA U. DEDICATES NEW CHAPTER HOUSE

Former President of National Council Gives Main Address

The new chapter house of Middlebury Chapter of Delta Upsilon fraternity was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies Saturday afternoon. About two hundred alumni and friends of the Chapter were present.

The undergraduates of the Chapter opened the program by marching in singing "March On Delta U." Edgar R. Brown '93, president of the Middlebury Delta Upsilon Corporation, presided. He first introduced the Rev. James L. Barton '81, who offered prayer. Samuel B. Botsford, chairman of the building committee, reported for that body. W. H. Patterson, of the Columbia Chapter and a former president of the National Council, gave a brief address, the keynote of which was friendship. Reginald L. Cook '24, president of the Undergraduate Association, extended congratulations to the fraternity on behalf of the student body.

The Hon. Redfield Proctor, Governor of Vermont, then performed the ceremony of opening the door of the new building and presenting the key to the president of the Chapter, Basil B. Walsh, who responded in a fitting manner.

The dedication of this beautiful colonial mansion so ideally situated and adjacent to the campus proper seems to mark the beginning of a new era of fraternity life in Middlebury. Within a few years Delta Upsilon is assured of neighbors across the road. Both the Chi Psi and Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternities having already submitted plans of new chapter houses to their architects.

The new house is built of red brick, trimmed in marble. It has a beautiful portico of colonial style supported by marble pillars. On the first floor is the large living room, with huge fireplace, and the dining room also with fireplace. The second and third floors have 7 double rooms and 4 single rooms, giving accomodations for 18 men. The house is fitted with the most modern plumbing arrangements. The kitchen is conveniently located in the basement.

Following the regular program the guests were shown about the house and served with light refreshments. Music was furnished by Messrs. Lee, Adams and Gollnick.

Serenade Seniors

In accordance with the established custom over fifty juniors met in front of Pearsons Hall, Wednesday night at twelve o'clock to serenade the seniors. The selections of songs and the splendid way in which they were rendered showed that they were the results of much practice.

Elect Reporters

At a recent meeting of The Campus Board, James C. McLeod '26, and James S. Jackson '26, were elected to the position of reporters.

The Class of '98 is holding its annual reunion today.

Johns Hopkins University—A sympathetic strike as a protest against the suspension of one of the members of the sophomore class at John Hopkins is being threatened by his classmates. The sophomores believe that the only reason for the suspension was his active participation in the recent interclass battle, and if their belief is substantiated, declare their intention of walking out.

Alumni Donors To Middlebury's Million

PREPARES LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Headquarters Prints All Alumni Names By Classes Since 1856

Alumni donors to the Middlebury Million represent nearly every class since 1856. From 1886 the continuity of classes which are represented in the list of contributors is unbroken.

A list of contributors by classes has been prepared by national headquarters and is here printed. In the rush of checking up on pledges, some of which were received at the last minute, some mistakes may have been made.

One hundred per cent of the student body and many friends and former students of the special schools are also included in the list of donors but at this time it was considered practicable to print only the names of the alumni.

Professor Wright Returns

Doctor Charles B. Wright, professor of Rhetoric and English Literature, emeritus, with Mrs. Wright and Miss Marjorie Wright, returned to Middlebury recently after an extended absence. Prof. Wright left here last November, and after spending a month in Akron, Ohio, went to Florida for the winter months. He returned to Akron for April and May, and motored to Middlebury the last week in May.

Prof. Wright and family expect to remain in Middlebury the greater part of the summer.

Football Men To Report Here Sept. 10

One Week of Intensive Training To Take Place of Camp at Dunmore

According to present plans, the annual football camp will not be held as usual at Higgins' Tavern on Lake Dunmore this year but the squad will report at Middlebury on September 10 for a week of intensive training previous to the opening of the academic year. It was originally intended to hold the early workouts at Lake Dunmore as usual but at the final meeting of the candidates for the team the last week of college Coach Morey announced that the men would report here for conditioning.

Already forty men have been picked to arrive for the early training. Coach Morey is aided in picking the candidates this year by the fact that the team will be picked from the three upper classes. He is thus in a position to know just what he has for material before the season starts. In case a final change should be made and the football camp is held at Lake Dunmore, Coach Morey will pick twenty-five or thirty from the prospective forty men.

The football season will open at Durham, N. H., when the eleven will meet the University of New Hampshire.

Gettens Gets Position At Colby College

Rutherford J. Gettens '23, recently received news of his appointment to the position of Instructor in Qualitative Analysis and Industrial Chemistry at Colby College in Waterville, Me. NORWICH CADETS TWICE FALL VICTIM TO BLACK PANTHER

By Close Margin at Northfield May 29

SCORE 10-7

Game Memorial Day Proves Walk-Away For Blue, Score Being 21-1

In the first game of the season with Norwich, at Northfield, May 29, the Black Panther clawed a 10 to 7 win from the cadets in a game featured by heavy hitting by both teams. Both teams got under way in the first inning and each scored a single run. Neither side tallied in the second but in the third Towne weakened and allowed Norwich to start a hitting spree which resulted in two more runs for the cadets. Williams went in in the fourth, but he proved no puzzle for his opponents, who started hitting him freely at once and sent four more runs over the plate. Middlebury tallied once in the fourth.

At the close of the fourth inning, things looked unusually bright for Norwich who had a five-run lead over the Blue and White batters Things took on an especially different aspect in the first half of the next inning when Middlebury found Moulton and pounded everything he pitched across the plate, adding four more runs. Norwich was unable to score in her half of the inning. Styles went in for Norwich in the sixth but was unable to stop the Middlebury barrage which resulted in three more runs. Neither team counted in the seventh. Middlebury gained her tenth run in the eighth after which things settled down Witham went in for Williams, after he had pitched for half an inning, and held the Norwich team in check at all times. Norwich errors were prominent in almost every inning and were responsible for several of the Middlebury tallies.

Klevenow was the sheik of swat for the day getting a triple, double and single. Martin displayed remarkable fielding ability when he pulled a pretty catch on the right field embankment.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Midd.	1	0	0	1	4	3	0	1	0	10	17	4
Norwich	1	0	2	4	0	0	0	0	0	7	11	9

Batteries: Middlebury, Towne, Williams, Witham and Kilbride; Norwich, Moulton, Styles and Gerrish. Umpire, Stark.

Repeat Victory Next Day

On the following day the Black Panther lived up to his reputation by pinning a 21 to 1 defeat on the cadets after nine long innings of loose baseball. Middlebury banged the offerings of Styles and Moulton for a total of 15 base hits, 46 Middlebury men facing the Crimson and Gold twirlers. Wild throws and errors by the soldiers were frequent.

Middlebury started the scoring festivities in the first inning when she scored three runs. The big explosion of the Norwich team took place in the second inning after the first two Middlebury men were out. The team then batted around and seven Middlebury men had come across the plate before the Norwich machine had succeeded in putting the third man out. In this inning Daly fanned and Kilbride flied out to first. Whitney came up and made first on a right field error after which Hastings came through with a two base hit. Novotny reached first on an infield error and scored Whitney. Martin hit a two bagger and scored Hastings, after which Gallagher reached first on another infield error. Klevenow came up and pounded out a two base hit, while Papke followed with a single, going on to second and third on wild heaves which scored Gallagher and Klevenow. Daly came to bat for the second time in the inning and was walked. Kilbride hit and reached second on an error while Papke went across for the seventh tally that inning. Whitney flied out to center, ending the inning.

Neither team scored in the third, but in the fourth the Norwich defense crumpled again and Middlebury sent four runs across the plate. The fifth and sixth frames were the most interesting of the entire contest. Tight pitching and infielding held both sides scoreless. Moulton went in for Styles in the last of the fourth. This strengthened the visitors' morale until the seventh when they went up in the air again allowing Middlebury to score four more runs. In the first of the eighth Norwich threatened to score for the first time during the game. Two men were out and the bases filled when Hastings picked up Clark's grounder and threw him out at first.

Norwich went wild again in the last of the eighth and heaved the ball to every conceivable corner of the diamond in frantic attempts to put a stop to Middlebury scoring; but her efforts were of no avail and four more runs were chalked up to Middlebury's credit. Norwich scored her lone run in the first of the ninth on an outfield error which let a long fly count for a three bagger. A single brought in the single tally.

Middlebury played a fine game throughout and Capt. Hastings, twirling his first home game of the season, showed fine form, holding the Norwich batters well in hand. Lusty larruping of the sphere at all times featured Middlebury's part in the contest.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R
Middlebury	3	7	0	3	0	0	4	4		21

Batteries: Middlebury, Hastings and Kilbride; Norwich, Styles, Moulton and Gerrish and Smith. Umpire, Kenworthy.

Issue "Extra" to Alumni

A single sheet purporting to be an "Extra" of The Campus was sent out to the alumni June 9, in the interests of Middlebury's Million.

It should be made clear that this publication was not issued by the Campus Board but originated from national headquarters in New York City. The paper contained drive news only, and therefore was not mailed to student subscribers.

Gallagher Leads Nine In Batting Record

Scores Average of .439 in 14 Games—Eleven Men Get Letters

According to the official batting averages recently issued by Manager Jakway, six members of the baseball team hit for 300 or more this season. Gallagher led with an average of .439 in 14 games and Klevenow was second with an average of .379 in as many games.

The averages are as follows:

Gallagher	.439	14 games
Klevenow	.379	14 games
Daley	.357	7 games
Novotny	.339	14 games
Martin	.311	14 games
Whitney	.300	14 games
Hastings	.292	14 games
Kilbride	.260	14 games
White	.250	4 games
Witham	.222	5 games
Papke	.211	14 games

Eleven men, including Manager Jakway, won their letter in baseball this year. At a recent meeting, the squad voted to recommend that a letter also be awarded to "Jack" White, who played his last season with the Varsity this year.

Gallagher and White are the only men that the Varsity loses this year by graduation. White as an emergency man behind the bat, and Gallagher as Middlebury's big stick artist, will be keenly missed next season.

VARSITY NINE CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Towne Creates Only Sensation By Pitching No-Hit No-Run Game

By scoring 89 runs against her opponents, and 64 hits, and by winning seven out of the fourteen games played Middlebury's 1923 baseball team closed the season with a .500 mark to its credit. In four games, Middlebury piled up runs that ran into two figures while her opponents succeeded but twice in running up scores of two figures. One of these teams was Boston College which is reputed to have one of the strongest teams in the east. The other time was the final game with Vermont, when luck was against the Black Panther and the upstate collegians tripped him for a 12 to 1 score.

Probably the most sensational game of the season and the one that will be remembered in years to come as most notable in Middlebury baseball history, was the one with St. Lawrence, Junior Week, when Frank Towne, freshman twirler, added his name to the roll of honor by pitching a no hit, no run, no reach game against the New Yorkers, sending them home with a 5-0 defeat.

Two Close Contests

The two closest games were against Boston University and Bowdoin, both of which were won by the opposing teams by one point. Boston University defeated Middlebury 4 to 3 the early part of the season in a game that was on ice until the last of the ninth. Again on Junior Week Bowdoin came here with a team reputed to be a formidable one. Middlebury had the best of the Maine nine until the eighth when the score was tied 4 to 4. In the ninth a wild heave to second allowed the Bowdoin team to push over the winning run and the game ended 5 to 4 in favor of the Brunswick collegians.

In the State Championship series, Middlebury lost three and won two of the games while the final game with St. Michael's scheduled for June 6 was postponed on account of rain and latter cancelled because of the lateness of the season. In the first game of the series, St. Michael's won against the Black Panther 6 to 1 in a jinx-ridden game that went against the Blue and White team. Vermont came here and after a thrilling nine inning battle emerged a 4 to 1 victor. Again the following week Middlebury suffered a relapse, allowing the Green and Gold to triumph 12 to 1. Thus far Middlebury had been able to score but one run in each of the state games but on May 29 she broke loose and won two state games against Norwich on two successive days. Playing at Northfield on May 29 she had some difficulty in defeating the cadets 10 to 7 but on Memorial Day the Black Panther broke loose in all his rage and made a seasonal record by clawing the Norwich team for a 21 to 1 victory and bringing the 1923 season to a fitting climax with so overwhelming a victory.

One of the features of the season was the consistent clouting of Novotny, Gallagher and Martin. In practically every game they succeeded in poling out long liners that netted two or three bases for each wallop. Towne, Witham and Williams did the twirling the early part of the season but in the last few games Capt. Hastings' arm reached condition and he showed fine form against the Troy engineers, and the Norwich cadets in the final games of the season.

Lathrop at Silver Bay

Middlebury is being represented at the Student Conference at Silver Bay, Lake George, this week by Milo W. Lathrop '26. Although an effort was made to get together a good-sized group to go to Silver Bay, it was ineffectual. Lathrop left for the Conference Saturday.

LANGUAGE SCHOOLS TO OPEN JUNE 29

French School To Take Possession of New Hillcrest Annex

The Middlebury Summer Schools of French and Spanish will open June 29, in their fifteenth session. The term will close October 16. Professor H. P. Williamson de Visme will be Dean of the French School, and Professor Moreno LaCalle, Dean of the Spanish School.

The French School which has gained an enviable reputation due to its past work plans to keep up its record this year. The teaching staff which has been carefully selected will consist of twenty members, Monsieur Charles-Marc desGranges, author of numerous well known books, Dr. of Letters, University of Paris, and Professor au Lycée Charlemagne, is the visiting Professor from Paris.

Twenty nine courses are to be offered, fourteen of which are intermediate.The remaining fifteen courses will count in securing the necessary credits for a master's degree.

This year the old Maison Francaise will not be used, due to the accomadations afforded by the new addition to Hillcrest, which is now ready for occupancy. In addition Pearsons, Battell, Hillside, Starr and Painter Halls will be used as usual.

There has been a slight increase in the rates due to increased cost in securing a teaching staff. The Summer School receives no appropriations so it must be self-supporting.

The opportunity first extended last year of enabling graduate students to carry on their work throughout the winter will again be in effect this year. Not only may graduates enter in July, but also in September and February. This will be an added factor in extending the work of the French School.

The Summer School of Spanish will have its quarters in Hepburn Hall. Its teaching staff consists of professors, chosen only because of their achievements in the field of Spanish but also because of special training in the courses in which they are to instruct. The staff will consist of Doctors Sanjurjo, Concha, Arguello, and Professor Laguardia and Senoritas de Alda, Martinez, Ibanez, and Cardenas.

Twelve laboratory courses reciting daily are to be given and five lecture courses requiring for their completion eight hours of work, are to be offered.

An event of interest will be the literary competition in which prizes are to be offered for a lyric poem, a short story in Spanish prose, and an essay discussing the advantages of the Spanish language from the cultural, social and commercial points of view.

English Club To Elect

Mr. Oscar Cooley '24, at a meeting of the English Club in Old Chapel Saturday afternoon, was elected temporary chairman to call a first meeting of the club next fall, for the election of officers. Eighteen new members have recently been initiated into the club. The bacon bat scheduled for Saturday evening was cancelled on account of the weather.

Reception For Senior Women

The Middlebury Chapter of the American Association of University Women held a reception for the Seniors and their parents in the Egbert Starr library Friday afternoon from four to six. The receiving line consisted of Mrs. P. D. Moody, Mrs. V. C. Harrington and Mrs. H L. Howard. The purpose of the tea was to introduce the Seniors to the association and to encourage them to become members. The A. A. U. W. is not only an affiliation of the college women of America but is also a part of the International Federation of University Women. It thus helps to unite its members with all the college women of the world.

The issue was printed by the Tuttle Co. of Rutland.

Dr. Brainerd Gives History of Starrs

Starr Family For Many Years Closely Connected With College

Hon. Peter Starr (son of Rev. Peter Starr of Warren Conn.) was born June 11, 1778. He graduated at Williams College in 1799, was admitted to the bar of Addison Co., Feb., 1805, was deacon of the Congregational Church in Middlebury 1838-1853, and resident Trustee of the College from 1819 till his death Sept. 1, 1860.

We are indebted to Dr. M. Allen Starr of New York City for the following biographical sketch of his father, Egbert Starr:

"He prepared for Middlebury College, but did not enter because of delicate health. In 1837 he went to New York City and began business with Levi P. Stone, the firm being known as Stone, Starr & Co. For forty years it was one of the leading houses in the wholesale dry goods trade. In 1870 he retired from active business and occupied himself with travel and literature and charitable work. He was liberal to the many charities of New York City especially to those of the Presbyterian Church to which he belonged. He was an ardent Republican, an active member of the Union League Club, and of the Historical and Geographical Societies and of the New England Society. He married Charlotte Augusta Allen, daughter of Moses Allen, a prominent banker of New York, in the year 1848. He left one son, M. Allen Starr, now a physician and Professor of Nervous Diseases in Columbia University. For many years he resided in Llewellyn Park, Orange, N. J., but after the death of his wife in 1880 he lived in New York till his decease, Oct. 7, 1897.

Egbert Starr left a bequest of $50,000 for the erection of the College Library Building, which was dedicated on Thursday, July 5th, during the celebration of the centennial of the College. At 3 o'clock the history of the gift that had made the Library Building possible was given by President Brainerd, followed by an address from Prof. B. Kellogg on "Books, their Contents and Uses," and the singing of an appropriate hymn written for the occasion by Prof. C. B. Wright. To the gift of Egbert Starr $5,000 had been added by Dr. M. Allen Starr for the decoration of the reading room, and also $5,000 for the purchase of books.

These events inspired Prof. E. H. Higley, who delivered the centennial poem on July 5th, to utter the following appropriate stanza:

Some men swear by Jove or Juno,
Some by Venus, some by Mars,
But our Alma Mater—you know—
Says quite simply, "Bless my Starrs!"

D. U. 10, Chi Psi 9

The Delta Upsilon diamond artists defeated the Chi Psi nine 10-9 Saturday, June 2, in a close game. It did not count in the interfraternity series, however, the D. U.'s having been eliminated from the contest by their previous defeat by the Neutrals.

Batteries: Delta Upsilon, Davie, Brainerd. Chi Psi, Moynihan, Mullen.

NEUTRALS WIN INTRA-MURAL CUP

Herzig Stars on Mound, Hurling Three Successive Wins

Fred J. Herzig '25, pitched the Neutrals to a decisive victory over the Chi Psi's in the final game of the interfraternity series, June 4. Herzig was easily the star of the series, having defeated both Kappa Delta Rho and Delta Upsilon previous to the game which gave the championship cup to the Neutrals. Though suffering from the strain upon his arm, Herzig pitched consistent ball, with perfect control, and held his opponents at his mercy thruout the game, the final score being 12-8.

The Chi Psi's started off auspiciously, timely hitting and many errors accounting for five runs in the first three innings. Their opponents came back strong in the fourth, touching Purdy for five runs, thus tying the score. In the fifth, the Neutrals sent two more men across the plate, establishing the lead which they held for the remainder of the game.

Moynihan Replaces Purdy

Moynihan took Purdy's place on the mound in the seventh inning. Though he was able to send many of the non-fraternity men back to the bench via the strike-out route, he could not prevent them from scoring two more runs in the ninth.

Though the Neutral outfield contributed many errors in the early part of the game, Herzig's faultless hurling kept the Chi Psi aggregation from becoming too familiar with first base. Lobo, behind the bat, and Wittenberg, on first, gave Herzig strong support.

Movement To Establish Schools of Religion

State Universities Awakening To Present Need of Religious Instruction

A united attempt is to be made, according to the Yale News, to establish schools of religion in the state universities all over the country. Some time ago an Executive Council of Schools of Religion was established and Prof. Charles F. Kent of Yale was placed at its head. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, Yale '96, is Chairman of the Advisory Committee. The plan has received the backing of such well-known men as ex-President Eliot of Harvard, and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

There are ninety tax-supported state and municipal universities and colleges in the United States, with over a quarter of a million students and more than twenty thousand instructors. With their vast resources, their distinguished public services and ever-increasing prestige, they are in many ways the most potent and impressive forces in modern education; but they are not in the full sense universities, for they have no departments of religion.

Recently a new and significant movement has appeared in these institutions that were once regarded as "godless." University presidents and faculties are becoming deeply interested in providing religious instruction for their students.

At the University of Michigan more than thirty courses dealing with the history, literature, and application of religion are now offered, and at other universities departments of religious instruction have been established. At Ann Arbor and at Columbus, representative committees have been appointed and are cooperating with the executive Council in taking steps to establish fully developed schools of Religion. Prof. Kent was given a leave of absence from Yale in order to actively direct the work.

The initiation banquet of Waubanakee was held June 1 at the Addison.

Malcolm Anderson Elected Assistant Manager of Track

At a special meeting of the Undergraduate Association in Hepburn Social Hall, June 5, Malcolm T. Anderson '25, was elected Assistant-Manager of Track for the year 1923-24.

Anderson's home is in Wethersfield, Conn. He is a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity and of the Sages. He has been actively interested in debating and public speaking, having won a prize in the Parker Speaking Contest in his freshman year. He was also a member of the Varsity debating team which debated the University of Vermont early this spring.

Dr. Sperry Defines Religious Experience

"Man Needs Spiritual Power To Back Up Moral Code," He Says

"Is a moral code enough?" asked Dr. Willard Sperry of the Cambridge Theological Seminary in delivering his very forceful sermon at the Sunday Vesper service, June 3rd. Dr. Sperry spoke on the place of spiritual power and religious experiences in progress.

"Morals are not the same as religion, but are back of it," declared Dr. Sperry. "Man needs religious experience and spiritual power to back up moral codes." Dr. Sperry's sermon was rich with illustrations of many beautiful and interesting instances.

Students Get Personal Ratings From Professors

Composite Ratings Made Up From Opinions Registered By Instructors

Each student has recently received from the Dean's office a personal rating sheet, made up from the ratings submitted by each student's instructors of the current year. This sheet grades the student on personality, industry, judgment and common sense, reliability, initiative, cooperation, and native ability. The grades are termed unsatisfactory, weak, average, good, and exceptional. They were determined by taking an average of the separate ratings of different instructors.

It is planned to continue this rating scheme each year. After it has been in force for four years, it will be possible to make a composite rating from all the personal ratings of all the student's instructors during his course at Middlebury. His general rating at the Dean's office will also be taken into account in compiling this record. Thus by determining what a man is when he comes to college, and what he is when he graduates, a very accurate record of his personal development will be obtained.

TRUSTEES APPROVE INCREASE IN RATES

Rooms in Hepburn To Cost More, Also in Women's Halls

The Prudential Committee of the Board of Trustees recently approved a raise of the room rates in Hepburn Hall, an increased charge in the cost of living for members of the Women's College, and a substantial increase in the fees in the departments of Chemistry and Biology, all to take effect at the beginning of next year. According to a statement by President Moody to the student body, the present scale of prices has proved inadequate for the maintenance and upkeep of the dormitories and laboratories, and the College has found it necessary to make these increases in order to prevent the accumulation of an annual deficit.

An increase of approximately 25 per cent was voted in the room rates in Hepburn. Although some of the rooms are to remain at the present figure, most of the rooms now renting for $60 per year will rent for $80; those now renting for $80 will cost $100; and those now priced at $100 will be raised to $120. Even after these increases, the rooms at Hepburn are priced very reasonably as compared with the living quarters at almost any other college. The room rates in Starr and Painter will remain unchanged.

An increased charge of $50 per year will be made in the cost of living in the Women's College. This will advance the cost of board and room in the women's halls and houses of residence to $350 in all except the Maison Francaise, where, as at present, an additional $50 will be charged. This will make the rate in the Maison Francaise next year $400, exclusive of tuition. The additional charge made for residence in the Maison Francaise does not indicate a difference in the quality of board or room furnished, but is a charge made necessary for the special residential privileges provided by maintaining a separate language house thruout the year. Middlebury yet remains by comparison the most economical college of its type for women in the eastern states.

As announced in the schedule for the first semester of 1923-24, the Chemistry fees now listed at $16 per year will be made $20 for the year, an increase of $2 in each course each semester. Courses now listed at $20 will be raised to $24 per year. The fee in Physical Chemistry will be raised from $10 to $14 for the year, while the fee in Industrial Chemistry will remain at the present figure of $6. In the department of Biology, the fees now listed at $5 per semester will be raised to $10 per semester next year.

IN THIS, the last number, of the College year, we wish to thank all of those who have helped in building up the wonderfully fine business we have enjoyed the past year.
TO THE GRADUATES
a long and successful life.
TO THE UNDERGRADUATES
a hearty welcome on their return, after a very enjoyable vacation.

HONORS FEATURE 1923 CLASS DAY

Latin Prizes Awarded--Two Members Added To Phi Beta Kappa

An unusually large number of high scholastic honors were announced at the Class Day exercises held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock on lower campus. Following the exercises President Moody announced that ten members of the graduating class, four men and six women, would receive their degrees magna cum laude, and twenty-seven, five men and twenty-two women, cum laude. Valedictory honors were awarded to Harry G. Owen and Mary E. Loughrey; salutatory honors were awarded to Philip M. Whitney and Vie S. Dole.

The senior procession led by the junior marshals, Wilma L. Walsh and James A. Hunter extended from the library to the platform erected on lower campus. The daisy chain was carried by the women of the three lower clases.

The program was opened by an address by the President of the class, Rowland R. Shepardson, who welcomed the parents and visitors to the class day exercises. The Class History was amusingly related by Alice B. Littlefield who presented her theme with reference to a "movie." The Class Oration delivered by Eddy S. Kl'n was rendered in a forceful manner. The Class Poem by Florence G. Clarke centered around the chapel and the inspiration for future life gained from its influence during four years at college. The Class Prophecy by Esther Frost and Malcolm Ross was cleverly depicted in the form of reading the horoscopes of the various members of the senior class. What we have gained from college, was the subject of the Class Essay, aptly rendered by Vie S. Dole. Cyril E. Shelvey delivered the Class Will with delightful humor.

President Moody then announced the following awards of prizes in Latin. The first Kellogg Latin-English Prize of $15 was awarded to Mary I. Marshall '25. To Harry G. Owen '23, was awarded the second prize of $10. Four prizes were then awarded for the four best Horace notebooks, of $20, $15, $10, $5. The first prize went to Isobel Sutherland on the basis of general excellence. The second prize for artistic originality in adapting illustrations to the latin text, was awarded to Christina Tasker. Helen Miller received a third prize for literary excellence and Ruth Collins claimed the fourth also for literary excellence. The Catlin and Deacon Boardman prizes were not awarded this year. The election of two more members to the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity was announced, Chester R. Corson and Henry H. Eddy being taken into the society. The program closed with the ceremony of tree dedication by Guilford M. Austin.

The members of the Class Day committee were Rowland R. Shepardson, Guilford M. Austin, Madelene H. Fletcher and Cecilia A. McDonough.

Hold House Dance

The Freshmen of Kappa Kappa Gamma gave their first informal dance at their chapter house Saturday evening, June 1. The rooms were prettily decorated with the colors of the sorority and with flowers. Refreshments were served under the direction of Misses Montgomery and Cadmus. Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Mellen were the chaperones.

Sanford Becomes Professor Emeritus

Myron K. Sanford '98, Professor of Latin Language and Literature here since 1894, has joined the ranks of professors emeritus and will retire from active classroom duty next year, it was announced at the Commencement Luncheon in McCullough Gymnasium today.

"I little expected," said Prof. Sanford, when introduced by President Moody, "when I handed in my resignation from active classroom work, that it would be announced on this occasion, and yet it is only fitting that it should be thus made known to the alumni.

Prof. Sanford received the degree of A. B. from Wesleyan in 1880, and of A. M. in 1883. In 1910 he was awarded the degree of L. H. D. by the University of Vermont. Since 1894, a period of twenty-nine years, he has been a faithful member of the Middlebury faculty.

His record of long-time service to Middlebury is unexampled, and no one could deny that he merits a well-earned respite from the classroom.

Turning to the future, Professor Tweedy pointed out four fields, all associated with the old god Janus, in which the college student should render the finest service. The first was that of law. The speaker described the restlessness under restraint, which characterizes our age, pictured various forms of lawlessness, and called upon all patriotic citizens to go forth as champions of law. The true citizen does not break law. He changes what is evil, mends what is faulty, and upholds what is good.

The second field was that of finance. One of the most difficult problems today is to make a dollar of reward mean a dollar of service, to divide justly the profits of industry, to see to it that every man and every woman earns the right to live in this wonderful present, and to so arrange society that nobody serves the social parasites whose boast and vaunted privilege is that he is free from the necessity of serving anybody.

the third was the field of war. Dr. Tweedy illustrated vividly the horrible cost of the great war and its utterly inadequate victory. He believed in the call to America to enter the war, but described himself now as being not a pacifist but a fighter for peace. Every future war, however, will mean a defeat for everybody. There can be no victors, only vanquished. If America and the nations muddle along as they are doing now, with four great storm centers in Europe ready to burst into flames, Dr. Tweedy said that it was difficult to conceive of any possible war which an educated man could with clean conscience either enter or support. Not to form some kind of league of nations, some international court, for the abolishment of war he looked upon as incredible stupidity, the crime of crimes.

The last field was that of religion. For introducing this into a commencement address the speaker made no apology. He simply followed the example of the world's leading statesmen, its great educators, business statisticians like Roger W. Babson, papers like the Wall Street Journal, and even cynical critics of society like George Bernard Shaw. Once men thought that religion was impractical. Now some of them are beginning to see that if the Sermon on the Mount is not practical, nothing else is. Religion the speaker

MUSIC DEPARTMENT TO HAVE HOUSE

Will Use Colonial Inn During Summer Session

The addition of a Music House to the College plant has been announced by the administration of Middlebury. The new house will provide a home for the music students of the Women's College being furnished for both dormitory and commons. It will be under the general charge of Miss Minnie Hayden, who for the past two years has been head of the Vocal Work at the regular sessions of the College and who has been in charge of the Summer Sessions of the Music School since the beginning of that branch of work at Middlebury some ten years ago.

A large and conveniently located house has been secured and is being gotten into condition so that it will be available for use by the coming Summer Session of the School. This eleventh session will be enlarged in facilities, in number of instructors, and in courses offered. Miss Hayden will act as Dean as in the past. The fields of voice, piano and organ, platform art, recital repertoire, and public school music will be covered by instructors who are experts in their special branches. The faculty will include: Miss Hayden, voice, Prof. Lewis J. Hathaway, Head of the Music Dept. at the College, piano, organ and harmony, Prof. Alfred Larsen of the College Dept. of Music, violin and cello, Miss Gladys Lott, a graduate of the Leland Powers School of Expression, platform art and recital repertoire, and Mr. Earl A. Braman, supervisor of public school music at Angola, Indiana, public school music.

At the English Club meeting in Pearsons, June 1, Professor Hardre spoke on "Points of Similarity between Musee and Shakespeare.

interpreted broadly, lifting it above the strife of creeds, and signifying by it the spirit which looks up to the Infinite Power back of the universe in filial obedience, and out to all sorts and conditions of men with the mind of Jesus. Without this Dr. Tweedy felt that it would be impossible to rear happy homes, to solve the industrial problem, or to build a new and better world.

In closing, the speaker called attention to four classes of people; the selfish, privileged reactionaries, intent upon nothing but holding their possessions and maintaining the status quo; the revolutionaries, of whom the world is being faced with an ever-increasing number; the neutrals, that great- unthinking, inert mass of slackers, drifters, and compromisers; and last of all, the practical idealists, ready to devote their lives to the task of social redemption. To this last class Professor Tweedy expressed the hope that every Middlebury alumnus would belong.

Following another selection of music, the following honorary degrees were conferred by President Paul D. Moody:

Degree of D. D.—Rev. Arthur W. Hewitt, of Plainfield, Vt., who has been pastor in the state for 18 years. He has lectured at five of the largest theological seminaries, served two terms in the State Legislature, and is at present Chairman of the State Board of Education.

Degree of A. K.—Mr. Herbert A. Hinman, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., a native of New Haven, Vt. He received his A. B. Degree from Middlebury with the class of 1898, taught in Ohio, Kentucky and California, and for the past few years has been Headmaster of the New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson.

N

Degree of LL. D.—Mr. Arthur L. James, who received his A. B. degree from Boston University with the class of 1889, and was professor of French and Latin at Middlebury College from 1891 to 1894. Later he taught in the Lawrenceville, N. J., High School, and became instructor in Latin in the Boy's High School of Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1898. In 1916 he was appointed Principal of the school, which has an enrollment of 6,300 boys and a faculty of 200 members.

Degree of LL. D.—Gov. Redfield Proctor of Vermont. He received the degree of M. S. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1902, and was a Captain of Engineers with the American Expeditionary Forces. He is a member of the Boards of Trustees of both the University of Vermont and Middlebury College, and was elected Governor in 1922. He is also the Vice-president of the Vermont Marble Co.

Degree of D. D.—Rev. Frederick B. Richards, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., who received the degrees of A. B. and M. A. in 1885 and 1888 respectively, from Amherst College, and the degree of B. D. from Yale Divinity School in 1891. He has served as a pastor in Wisconsin in New York City, in Boston, and for the past nine years has been pastor of tthe North Congregational Church at St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Degrees in course were then conferred by the President upon 38 men and 66 women. Three men additional will receive degrees after the completion of work in the Summer Session.

The Commencement festivities will end tonight with the Senior Ball in McCullough Gymnasium.

selections are always keenly appreciated.

The vocal quartette consisting of Meessrs. Lorenzo, Huggard, Hunter and Dyer is one of the finest quartettes in New England and gave ample evidence of the splendid work that is being done in the Music Department. A Reverie by the organ, piano and violin was charmingly rendered by Miss Ostiguy, Miss Saltmarsh and Mr. Prata. Miss Lillian Ingham gave an artistic interpretation of "Trees" adapted from the poem by Joyce Kilmer. Two violin solos by Mr. Prata, Tschaikowsky and Kreisler numbers, were enthusiastically received. Middlebury is proud to own such a finished artist as Mr. Prata. A two piano number by Miss Gaylor and Miss Slayton, both artists of considerable technique, brought to a close one of the most successful commencement concerts ever heard in Middlebury.

President Moody Delivers Baccalaureate To Graduates

us from three men who saw the beauty of God in the stars, and in our nights of weeping we feel no broken arms about us when some of the prayers and poems of these ancient Hebrews fill the voids of our hearts and lift us into the presence of the Eternal.

He who sees aright sees the King in His beauty. It might even be called the test of vision. We see God in His majesty, in His power, in His omnipotence. This is the beginning of sight. The truest sight is to see God in His beauty, in His desirableness, in the appeal, the unutterable appeal. Yet we know well that when we see God in His beauty, it is in the face of Jesus Christ that we see him.

The narrowness of life is one, if not the greatest, of the foes of spirituality. God cannot be seen through narrow apertures. There is nothing truer than that where there is no vision, the people perish—or that man cannot live by bread alone. We must always keep in view the land of far distances, the deep relatedness of things. There is no drudgery which cannot be transformed into something higher if the distant view is taken. The thing that you do for the moment alone, lasts for the moment alone. The thing you do with your eyes on the land of far distances lasts longer and is better worth while.

Closing Words To Graduates

For you to whom this is the last Sunday of your undergraduate days, we sincerely hope and earnestly pray that the result of your four years here has been that you have seen the King in His beauty, realized evermore truly the nature of God, and that you have learned to lengthen and broaden your vision so that you take a wider interest in your fellowmen and a more intelligent and sympathetic view of life. Then no task will be mean, no duty humdrum, no drudgery meaningless, for your sight will be corrected and inspired by the King in His beauty and the land that is very far off.
